1. The factory at Legnowo (P54/J08) is manufacturing dynamite bricks (sic). The work is supposed to be kept secret. A large number of factory buildings are underground and are reached by means of tunnels. All buildings on the surface have walls made of earth and covered with grass, and the roofs of the buildings are covered first with tar and then with sand, soil and grass. An electrically charged wire fence surrounds the factory, and the Army and Industrial Police guard the area. All workers entering the factory must show a special pass.
2. Two workers of the Sluzba Polsce brigade (Service to Poland) were digging near the factory and accidentally cut through a high power cable, causing the entire factory, about 16,000 workers, to be idle. The two men were court-martialled.
